Reconstruction

The recent action of the House in Congress providing for a republican form of Government in the States which have been usurped by the rebels, will give much more satisfaction than the plan suggested by the President in his Amnesty Proclamation. The bill which passed, makes it necessary that a majority of the voters in any State, instead of one tenth only, shall take part in the election of delegates, prior to the re establishment of the State Government All white male citizens, who take the oath of allegiance, even though they may have held civil office or military rank, below that of Colonel in the rebel service, are to be allowed to vote Until the reorganization is effected, provisional Governors are to be appointed by the President, and the laws of the United States and of each State as they existed prior to the rebellion are to be enforced, except so far as they sustain slavery, which is to be forever prohibited in all the States, that were reached by the Emancipation Proclamation These general provisions, while they are believed to be sufficient at the proper time, to secure protection and republican institutions to the loyal people of the South, obviate all objection which was quite general through the country, to the proposed plan of allowing so small a fraction of the voters as one tenth in any State to control its political affairs. We trust that the bill will pass the Senate, and without great delay, for we believe that in a majority of the seceded States, there will be found before the Fourth of July a sufficient number of faithful and repentant citizens, to restore under its provisions the system of State Government, "as it was," before the rebellion.

Honorably Confession.—We are informed that Greathouse while en route to San Francisco under military escort, expressed himself in conversation as a "strong sympathizer with the rebels" This he did without equivocation or reserve, saying that he thought all southern men had the same sympathy. He was asked what he thought of northern men who manifested so much good will for the Confederacy, reference being made particularly to the Northern editors of the Copperhead press in this State To this he very promptly replied that he thought them all hypocrites—that they were only professional traitors—but if any should be found ready preferring the South to the North they would be held in scorn and contempt by true southern men —Appeal

How do Northern sympathizers relish such an opinion as to their position? They are deemed hypocrites and professional traitors even by a man, who has done all that he could to aid the rebellion, because he regarded the South as his country. Nor is it strange that any one, who sees or hears of Northern men opposing the Government, should entertain such opinions of their sincerity and loyalty. They have no excuse whatever for their conduct. They are base and treasonable without any motive, except their desire to see the Government destroyed, so that upon its ruins, the slavery dynasty may build up a sectional government, having slavery for its chief corner stone, and giving the rewards of office to men calling themselves Democrats, who for the sake of party, would sell their country, or destroy it forever.

A very Certain Test —Though most of those who call themselves Democrats, profess to be in favor of the Union and to desire the destruction of the rebellion, yet among them are some who read the reports of Grant's success, with deep and poorly concealed mortification and anger. Last week, while they supposed there was a chance for Lee to draw Grant into an ambuscade, and then to overwhelm him, they were tolerably cheerful, though very anxious "Don t be too sure," they said, "Lee is a better soldier than Grant," and all that sort of semi treasonable caution flowed from their lips like froth from the mouth of a mad dog Now, since the victory is sure and decisive, they are sullen, they don't seem anxious to hear any more news whatever Their former pretence of solicitude for the safety of the Government has disappeared, and the honest sentiments of their hearts speak out in their faces They are walking and distinct proofs that—the men who are despondent when they hear of a Union victory are sympathizers with treason and the rebels, at heart.

Served Him Right —A noisy secessionist, named Chipman, formerly a member of Congress from Michigan, has lately been addressing the so called Democratic meetings in San Francisco, and in his speeches has vehemently denounced and abused the Government In the last one, "Who is General Wright," indignantly exclaimed the speaker, "that I should be threatened with this vengeance? I am Gen Chipman, a free born American, and dare speak my thoughts to the world" The next day, the Provost Marshal arrested, and sent him to Fort Alcatraz, where his treasonable spouting will be harmless There are men in Oregon who may take warning from the fate of Chipman and while they discuss political questions, take care they do so fairly and without cursing the Government for trying to save itself, or justifying the rebels in their infamous treason

Letter from Placerville

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT]

Placerville, Boise Co I T,
May 8th, 1864

The ides of May have arrived, and with them also that beautiful weather for which this Eastern country is so justly celebrated

The excitement which I mentioned in a former letter as being on the tapis has come to an inglorious end, occasioned by the killing of a friendly Indian and wounding another in Camas Prairie by a portion of the prospecting party, causing the party to break up and return, fearing retaliation for the murder on the part of the Indians The story, as it was told me by one of the company is this While the party was camped for the night at Camas Prairie on their way out, two Indians made their appearance in camp carrying a flag of truce and also certificates of good character given them by traveling whites They were received as friendly, and a trade opened with them for fish and other ictas, which they had brought with them After their departure Jesse Peters and three others started in pursuit and succeeded in murdering one of the Indians and wounding another as above stated, the balance making their escape On their return to camp from this gallant exploit a double barreled gun in the hands of one of the parties accidentally exploded the charge taking effect in the hip and abdomen of Jesse Peters, who it is reported has since died of its effects I would not knowingly traduce the dead, therefore I throw the pall of silence over the memory of Mr Peters, but it is my opinion that his associates who have not been so summarily dealt with by Providence should be arrested and handed over to the tribe whose sons and brothers they have so ruthlessly attacked The white race demand this of the Indians, why should not the whites "do unto them as they would be done by" The effect of this will be that prospecting will be seriously impaired, and many of those who go out, will not live to return, as the Indians revenge for a murder of this kind can never be glutted The officers of the Fort will be recreant to their duty, if they fail to arrest those disturbers of the public peace and safety

The mining news from South Boise is quite cheering A friend of mine, just over from that section, reports the many gold ledges in that vicinity as yielding even more than the most sanguine expectations of the lucky holders Several arastras worked by water power are running continually—each arastra grinding on an average one ton in 24 hours When some of your numerous quartz mills make their way into that country, bullion will be comparatively a drug in the market

The Lawyer Gold and Silver Mining Company of this place, which I mentioned in a former letter as having let a contract to run a tunnel into their ledge, have struck very rich rock 90 feet in This ledge promises well, notwithstanding the cold water thrown upon it by a California "Expert" sent up to examine it,—and whose principal aptness was for drawing money from his employers' pockets without performing that for which he was to receive it

The other ledges of this district are all being worked upon, and by the coming of fall, several ledges will be so far opened as to permit of extensive operations during the winter. The Gold Hill Company propose running a new tunnel shortly to strike their ledge lower down and facilitate the work of opening You may judge how valuable this ledge is when one of the owners positively refused $6,000 for his interest—100 feet

The Columbia Company's tunnel is run in over 30 feet with a ledge four feet wide of rock, which bids fair to be a rival of the Gold Hill The other ledges are all at work in the same way, running tunnels and sinking shafts—making altogether what might be called a Happy Camp, as nearly all the quartz claims are in the same hill

The influx of population still holds out What we will do with them is a question for the future to determine.

Death of Mrs. Clay.—The Louisville Journal says

The death of the widow of Henry Clay was not an unexpected event, for she had passed the eighty-third year of her age, and physical infirmities had long shown the premonitions of her disease. It is sixty five years ago this spring since Lucretia Hart became the wife of Henry Clay, when he was about three years her senior. Her serene and happy temperament, when contrasted with the exciting anxieties of his political life, shows what a haven of rest Ashland must always have been when Mr Clay was able to throw off the weight of public responsibility and seek repose in the bosom of his family Those who knew Mrs Clay can bear pleasing testimony to her cheerful assumption of household duties, her devotion as wife, and her loving patience as a mother Henry and Lucretia Clay had eleven children born to them, six daughters and five sons, of whom but three survive Theodore, the eldest, who has been for many years a lunatic under charge of Dr Chipley, Thomas H, who is now abroad in diplomatic service, and John M, a stock farmer in Fayette county. As the moon derives its radiance from the sun, so the life of this good and pure Christian lady received the halo which surrounded the fame of her husband, and as we record her death the memory of the great, the noble, and the gifted Clay rises before us and he seems to stand before us in bodily presence, "in his habit as he lived," when all around "drew light and life and glory from his aspect." Upon the tomb where will repose the remains of Lucretia Clay, there need be no other epitaph to endear the spot to the American heart, than "The widow of Henry Clay," though her virtues and her loving impulses have, like winged angels, borne her to the mercy seat above, and recorded her name amid the glorious list of "the just made perfect."

Lamentable Misfortune —Mr. Cardwell of this city furnishes us with an account of a melancholy occurrence, which took place at Hood River on Saturday last, resulting in the drowning of a Mr Jenkins and his son, and a Mr. James Laughlin. They had attempted to cross the river in a sail boat, accompanied by a fourth person, Mr. A C Phelps, and when about the centre of the stream the little boy fell overboard. His father jumped into the water to rescue him, and struggling so severely and uncertain of reaching the boat, Mr Laughlin swam to their assistance, but the current was too strong and the three were drowned. A very strong under current at the place where the unfortunate circumstance happened is supposed to have swept away the bodies, but search has been instigated for them, which will be continued until they are recovered if possible Mr. Jenkins leaves a wife and one child, near Hood river, where he has lived for several years past, and Mr Laughlin leaves a father, mother, sister and brother at the Dalles

General Grant a Pork and Beans Man They tell us now that General Grant is a genuine pork and beans man—a regular Saturday night New England man. It is said that he does not fancy the luxurious style of living prevalent in the Army of the Potomac He says he can maintain his physical integrity on pork and beans, as soldiers do out West, and believes it can be done by them here Caterers to the delicate palates of our officers are in spasms at the report that Lieut. General is about to banish their wares from the lines —Schenectady Star.

Ireland and its Regenerators —There are two organizations in Ireland for the purpose of breaking loose from the British crown the Fenian Brotherhood and the Brotherhood of St Patrick The difference is said to be that while the Fenians rest their hopes of national regeneration on the assistance of American bayonets, the Brotherhood of St Patrick look to Rome for a realization of their hopes The two organizations are apparently antagonistic, and have recently come into collision much to the satisfaction of the English press and of course to the serious detriment of their cause

Large Ditch —In Humboldt District, Nevada Territory a company is constructing a canal sixty three miles in length, five feet deep and sixteen feet wide, to lead the waters of the Humboldt river to the mining sections of the different districts This canal will give water power for any number of quartz mills A city has been located by a company on both sides of the canal in the richest section of the country where the mills are to be built and it is claimed that this will be the centre of business in Humboldt county

Affairs in Minnesota

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT]

St Paul, March 1 1864

INTRODUCTORY.

As we are prominently connected with the new gold fields of Idaho, and as much is being said and done on this side of the Rockys to attract people to your country perhaps it may not be amiss to post your readers in regard to affairs in this region Besides we feel much nearer to Portland now than we have ever felt before since the days of the Stevens' explorations Interest has been too extreme regarding Idaho since the return of Capt Fisk, who seems himself to be crazy about those mines and is intent on making everybody else so. He has spoken frequently upon the subject with which I am not you are all familiar and hence I need not comment upon his speeches—unless it be to caution you about trusting the whole truth of his statements has had a tendency to increase his ardor for a trip across the plains, and hundreds will leave on account of it But as the draft is to come off on the 10th of March, it will be early enough to check this exodus somewhat. There have been so many postponements that people are incredulous as to whether there will be a draft on that day, but it seems it is a settler for everybody The draft is inevitable and those who are exposed to it have had sufficient warning to prepare themselves of the President, in addition to the call of the 1st of February foots up the enormous number of two million one hundred and seventy five thousand men not more than two thirds of which have ever been put into the field, and another call will not be received with pleasure by anybody who is liable to military service, but it will be acquiesced in and accepted by a vast majority of the people as a necessity to our national existence and as an indication of the purpose of the Government to make an end to the rebellion during the ensuing season Almost every State as well as our own is far behind on former calls, and it is scarcely possible that the present can be filled by volunteers

THE LAST CALL

RETURN OF REGIMENTS

The 1st, 2d, and 4th Regiments of Minnesota Volunteers have lately returned from the field of active service Their haggard looks and thinned ranks show what they have done for the cause, and the warm receptions given them by their noble mothers, sisters, fathers and brothers at home show how their services have been appreciated

A GUERILLA ARRESTED

A special detective from St Joseph, Mo, Lieut Pickett, has been in this city for some time, on the track of a young man named Louis Vandevier, once a member of a notorious guerilla band, under the leadership of Joe Hart, whose exploits for a time in Missouri were almost equal to the notorious Quantrell, who sacked the town of Lawrence last fall Vandevier was recognized as second in command at the sacking of Plattsburg in Clinton county, Missouri, last summer, at which time the Bank at that place was robbed of $9,000, and citizens of about $13,000 It appears that he boasted of his exploits at the time and also that afterwards he was one of the murderers of the Quantrell raid on Lawrence, but this latter he now denies He was tracked to Saint Paul by Lieut Pickett, accompanied by a gentleman well acquainted with Vandevier When they came here they reported to Capt. Keith, Provost Marshal, who detailed two men to aid in the search. They looked around the city pretty thoroughly and had about given up the search for the present, and having taken passage on their return, the stage with the detectives stopped at the City Hotel, for a passenger, when Vandevier came out in the capacity of porter with a trunk belonging to the passenger The detectives said nothing until they got to the Merchants Hotel, when they got out and went to the hotel and made the arrest, and started for St. Joseph the following day with their prisoner

FIRST LINK OF A SECOND OVERLAND RAILROAD.

The St Paul and Pacific Railroad was opened to Anoka, 40 miles from this city, on the 18th of January. The event was celebrated with all the honors In the evening, a large number from Anoka sat down to supper in the International Hotel at St. Paul. There was much speechifying, in the course of which the Hon Edmund Rice made the following statement, which will interest your readers

"The wires are already in Montreal for a Telegraph line from Pembina to Puget Sound, and it is proposed by the St Paul and Pacific Railway Company, to construct a telegraph line from St Paul to Pembina The same interest has offered to the managers of this road to take it from Watab to Fort Garry"

STEAMERS OF RED RIVER OF THE NORTH.

The Express Company of Burbanks Bros., in this city, placed a steamer on the Red river in 1859, called the Anson Northrup, in honor of one of the early pioneers, which has been purchased by the Hudson's Bay Company In 1861, the same Express Company commenced the construction of another steamer, but it has not been finished in consequence of the Indian troubles, and is still on the ways at Georgetown, the head of navigation on the Red river of the North.

THE KILLING OF LITTLE CROW

Little Crow, the Chief of the Sioux Indians, was killed by Mr Nathan Lampson, an old man and an early settler in the country. The ordinary scalp-bounty, for killing Indians is $200, but the State Legislature, on the 18th of February, took action appropriating to Mr. Lampson $500, in consideration of his age, distinguished service, and courage in the killing of Little Crow. A vote of thanks was offered by Mr Rice, and the bill was amended making it quite valuable to the old man as an heirloom. His action in the field, during the Indian campaign of last year, certainly called for such a testimonial Little Crow was the most sagacious and cunning leader the hostile Indians had, and his death is what was most devoutly wished for by the people. Very many more leaders are being pursued about the Red river country, and Major Hatch, of the volunteer militia, will have them all before long, unless there is some stronger reason than the loss of horses.

LITTLE SIX AND HIS BAND

In the spring of 1863, a band of Wah kon-ton Sioux, under the leadership of Little Six, were scouting about in the vicinity of St, Paul, Mendota and White Bear Lake, in search of the rendezvous of the Indians who had surrendered to General Sibley during the fall of 1862, and were imprisoned at Fort Snelling They occupied 140 days in the journey and very many were the "scares" in consequence of it but they returned without accomplishing their mission Little Six has since been captured, also several of his band and one of the four who commenced the war by murdering white people at Acton, who boasts that he had killed 14 white women and children. They were captured on British Territory by American troops, and will be brought to this city for trial A good deal of excitement had been caused in the settlement by this act as being a gross breach of international law But the Nor'-Wester strongly commends the course pursued by the American authorities

ITASCA.

Seven Thousand Rebel Dead at Gettysburg The Gettysburg (Penn.) Star and Banner has the following:

From evidence developed to the workmen and others engaged in removing the dead bodies on the battlefield, they are now fully convinced that not less than seven thousand rebels lost their lives in this conflict the bodies of whom are still there In one space of three acres were found three hundred and twenty five Confederates slain, and elsewhere, in a single trench, two hundred and fifty more. A considerable portion of the battle ground is likely to be ploughed up this spring and summer, by farmers owning it, preparatory to planting corn and other grain As a matter of course the Confederate graves must be obliterated, and the trenches which now indicate their places. There is a strong desire with the people, in respect to humanity, to have these bodies, though of the enemy, respectably and decently put away in some enclosure where they may not be disturbed Our common humanity should impel us to such a step

A Self Operating Sewing Machine —A watchmaker named Zuckerman, from San Jose, has, after two years of incessant labor, perfected a self-operating sewing machine, which dispenses entirely with hand and foot power, running as fast or slow as desired, and relieving the sewer of all necessity for physical exertion other than to guide the cloth so as to form the seams or work the pattern of the embroidery, as may be desired. The wonder, now that the job is accomplished is that nobody ever thought of it before. The machine moves as noiselessly as a common clock, and does it work with a regularity and neatness hardly attainable we should judge, by a treadle or hand machine —Alta

Accident to the Jenny Jones —The clipper schooner Jenny Jones, Capt James Jones Master, arrived from Victoria last evening, in a disabled condition, having met with a bad misfortune in crossing the Columbia river bar, full statements concerning which appear below. Of the cargo there is about forty tons on board, mostly iron and crates of crockery We publish the manifest of her cargo as it appeared at the time of shipment The passengers and crew were fortunate, under the circumstances, in saving their lives.

STATEMENT OF THE SAILING MASTER

The schooner Jenny Jones, James Jones, master, left Victoria harbor on Tuesday morning May 10th She had light winds from the west and S W beating down the Straits of San Juan de Fuca. On the 11th passed Tatoosh Island Light On the 12th, off Cape Granville, passed a large steamer, supposed to be the Sierra Nevada steering north, On the 13th at 7 o'clock, Cape Disappointment Light House bearing N. E, distant 10 miles No pilot boat in sight, laid off the land On the 14th, at daylight, no pilot boat in sight, stood in for Columbia river bar, with a fresh breeze from the N. W steering in through the north channel, got safely inside the bar, when the wind dying away with a heavy swell running, a couple of heavy breakers tossed the schooner broadside on what is called the Peacock Spit, where she struck heavily, starting sternpost, raising the mainmast about ten inches, breaking several knees in her deck frame, every swell throwing her further up on the Sand spit, and the breakers sweeping the decks, in which situation we got, all hands, crew and passengers, at work throwing overboard the cargo to save the lives of passengers and crew, together with the vessel and part of the cargo, the vessel leaking badly and gaining on the pumps, with one gang of men with buckets bailing the water, but at the same time we laid on the Spit from about 8 o'clock in the morning until 7 o clock in the evening, thumping heavily, with the sea breaking over our decks. The pilot boat California Capt. Crosbie, laying to anchor, during the night in Baker's Bay, immediately after our accident or disaster, came out and laid off and on during the whole day ready to render any assistance needed, which was the only consolation of the passengers and crew in the situation we were in, as we lost our boat launching it over the side. A lady passenger with two small children sat all day on the bowsprit wrapped up in blankets, being the only dry spot on board. In the evening as the tide kept coming in we kept all the sails set, a fresh breeze from the N. W. about 7 o'clock, P. M., brought us out in deep water into the south channel. We got up to Astoria, and anchored, being, if I am correctly informed, the first vessel that ever got off, after once being on the Peacock spit, which was chiefly through Divine Providence and the almost superhuman efforts of the passengers and crew, who worked nearly all day, so that the skin on the ends of every man's fingers was worn off and bleeding from handling the pig iron, which was the principal part of the cargo On the 14th, entered a protest before W W Parker, Esq., Notary Public, at Astoria, and sailed up Columbia river as far as Woody Island, where we anchored on the 16th Sailed up and anchored off Oak Point Mills on the 17th, the schooner leaking badly, and took the steamer J H. Couch to tow us to our destination at Portland, where we arrived about 10 o'clock I have followed the sea, now 23 years, and 14 of that as master, mate and pilot, entering nearly every harbor on this coast, but this is my first trip across the sands pits and I hope it will be my last.

O H SPENCER,
Sailing Master of the Jenny Jones.

STATEMENT OF THE PASSENGERS

Arrived on the 13th at 7 o clock P. M off the Columbia river bar, and finding no pilot boat in sight laid off and on all night At daylight, no pilot boat being in sight, stood in for the bar with a fresh breeze from the northwest Standing in through the north ship channel, after getting over the bar, the wind getting light and heading us off with a heavy swell, got on broadside on the Peacock spit, with heavy breakers coming over the vessel, thumping heavily, starting mainmast and stern post, also some of the after planking The Captain, to save the lives of the passengers and crew, set all hands at work to throw overboard the cargo and continued to work until three-fourths of the cargo was thrown overboard. At about 4 o clock the Captain gave orders to knock off work After thumping under the pressure of the sails at 7 o clock, got into deep water, and arrived at Astoria at half past 10 o clock There were 21 passengers on board, which with the officers and crew made 26 souls There were extraordinary exertions rendered by the passengers, some of them being up to their middle in water, handling pig iron and other heavy material. There were one lady passenger two children and eight chinamen

Fine for Boating.—Fifteen inches were added to the height of the Willamette river, during 24 hours ending at four o'clock P. M. yesterday. Persons versed in river matters say the Willamette is in fine boating order at present, and we judged so, when we see the Senator take her position along the accustomed berth of a steamship, at the lower landing, and a cargo of sand float over Knott's wharf for distribution to wagons from a flat boat, yesterday morning.

Cattle and Sheep.—The amount of stock that is still kept moving in the direction of the mines, is not materially lessened from what it was two months ago, but there appears to be more disposition to go by the trails over the mountain, which are said to be in good condition. A band of cattle from Polk county started that route yesterday. The steamer Julia has a cargo for the Cascades to-day, and the Express will take 300 head of sheep to Monticello.

Incorrect Reports —A report has been extensively circulated throughout the country that the small pox was raging furiously in Portland, and people have been particular to avoid coming to the city in consequence of it. We have yet to hear of the first case existing in Portland this year, and we are assured by physicians that the health of the city was never known to be better at this season, than it is at the present time.

Runaway —A horse came tearing down Front street yesterday, in harness, with a piece of single-tree attached to one trace. Several attempts were made to check his career, but he put his would be captors to a speedy relinquishment of their object, and galloped on, making nearly the length of the street before being captured.

Accident to the Express.—A serious accident occurred to the steamer Express yesterday, in the Cowlitz river, by which her rudder stock was bent, and her wheel considerably damaged. Repairs were made last night.

Quick Trip —The steamer New World made her round to the Cascades yesterday, in less time than was ever before made on that route—arriving back at her wharf in this city at six minutes of 2 o'clock P M Several passengers came from the Cascades The treasure by W. F. & Co's express amounted to about $12,000.

Lumber for the Upper Country.—Twelve thousand feet of choice lumber, mostly from Oswego, will leave this city to-day for the Cascades, thence up the Columbia.

Jaundice.—This yellow coloration of the skin is characteristic of an increased secretion of bile, or of its passage into the blood, in consequence of some obstruction in the circulation of the liver. Being itself but a symptom, the cause must be attacked in the central diseased organ and ample experience proves that the PERUVIAN SYRUP acts in a wonderful manner in stimulating the liver to the proper performance of its duty.

A Convict in Clover.

(Concluded.)

Was he really the Comte de Pontis Sainte Helene, the noble emigré who had won back by his sword a position lost in troublous times, or was he the escaped convict that Darius asserted him to be? The question of his identity was quite set at rest by overwhelming proofs which were brought before the Court of Assizes of the Seine, and Coignard, together with Rosa Marcen, the ex-countess, and six accomplices, including his brother, the footman, who had ejected Darius, were brought to trial.

An investigation of very many months had brought to light the past life of this extraordinary scoundrel. He was the son of a vinedresser, and was himself brought up as a hatter, a trade which he had abandoned to enter the army of the convention as a grenadier. His military career was, however, cut short by the discovery of several burglaries in which he had been engaged, and for which he was in 1800 sentenced to fourteen years' hard labor. Two years only of this time had been passed when, in spite of every precaution, he managed to escape from Toulon. On the night following his escape he contrived to embark on a vessel bound to a Spanish port. He was set on shore and at a town near the coast fell in with his future companion. This was a girl who had been in the service of the Count de Saint Helene, the last of an ancient and noble family who had left France at an early stage of the Revolution and had entered the Spanish service, in which he had afterward gone to South America. Here he greatly distinguished himself by his courage and thorough uprightness; but his health gave way, and he returned to Spain, which he reached only to die far from his country and friends, and bereft of nearly all save his name and his sword; uncared for except by a single female servant who watched him in his last moments. To this girl the dying count left in gratitude the little he still possessed. Slender enough were the means of existence of the girl thus left alone. One by one she sold the objects which made up the count's legacy, and at the time that Coignard fell in with her, all had gone except a little box of old parchments which the count had often told her in his last illness were the most precious things he had. Discussing the means of raising money, the pair found that nothing remained to them but this casket, which a Jew had long wanted to buy of the girl. Before selling it Coignard thought it would be as well to look at the contents. They were the dead count's patents of nobility, and certificates of his having served honorably in Spain and America. The next day the pair left that part of Spain, assuming the names of the Count and Countess de Saint Helene, and Coignard, as an exile with no dependence but his sword, soon found military employment in a country where a title possesses a sort of a charm.

We know in part what was the subsequent life of this man, and have seen how he was in a fair way to reach the highest honors when the revelations of an old fellow-convict toppled him down; but the most singular part, perhaps, of his career remains to be noticed. As far as could be learned, his conduct for a period of ten years after his escape from prison had been free from crime, except, of course, as regards the assumption of a borrowed title; but it was in Paris that his old course of guilt had been run, and on this return to Paris he renewed acquaintance with his former associates. His intelligence and boldness, and the high social position he occupied placed him naturally at the head of an organized band, of which next to himself, his countess and his brother were the most distinguished members. Coignard, accompanied perhaps by his lady, would pay a visit to some great man, and would take advantage of a momentary absence to get an impression of the locks of drawers in which he had reason to suspect that valuables were kept. A plan would then be arranged by the band; the absence of the master of the house would be known to Coignard, and by him notified to his associates, who, in a twinkling, would carry off all the plate in the house. On the morrow Coignard would call, sympathise, and offer his services in tracing the robbers. After a while he would declare to the police that he had made discoveries, and, having put them on the wrong scent, would be at liberty to plan a fresh enterprise. Others, again, had bitter reason to recollect the visits of the countess, during which Alexander Coignard, the footman, would carefully study the weak points of the house, from which all the plate would disappear thereafter.

On his trial Coignard persisted in claiming his assumed name. To the president, who addressed him as simple Peter Coignard, he replied: "I have already had the honor to inform M. le President that my name is De Pontis, and that I will not answer any questions addressed to Coignard; if death stared me in the face, I would say the same thing." The president was obliged to give way, and thenceforth addressed him as "first prisoner." No doubt whatever was left in the minds of the jury that they had before them Coignard the convict; he had in fact in an unguarded moment betrayed himself while in prison. It was, however, fully proved that his conduct and courage while serving in Spain had been deserving of the highest praise, testimony which he supported by baring his breast before the audience, and showing the scars with which it was forrowed. It was to these facts and to a certain dignity in his manner, that he owed the merciful consideration of the jury. He had shot at an agent of police who had tried to arrest him, but he was acquitted on the charge of attempted homicide, and after a trial of two days, was condemned to hard labor for life.

An immense crowd flocked to the Bicetre to witness the departure of the train in which was the felon whose daring fraud had brought him into the presence and favor of his sovereign, and in every town through which his road lay the same curiosity was excited. His arrival at Toulon, his old place of confinement, was hailed with enthusiasm by his old comrades. The ex-countess, who had been acquitted, followed him to Toulon that she might still be near him in his captivity, and there she remained till he died, at the end of a few years. The previous dispersion of the old French nobility, and the unsettled state of affairs in France, go some way to explain the success of Coignard's fraud; but the social position which he reached, and the length of time which he maintained it with perfect external propriety, place him perhaps at the head of all modern swindlers of this stamp. —Once a Week.

A Brave Drummer Boy.—Orion P. Howe, a little drummer boy in the 55th Illinois volunteers, has been placed in the Naval School at Newport by the President. Gen. Sherman wrote to the Secretary of War of him, saying that at the assault of Vicksburg he came to him at the front crying out: "Gen. Sherman, send some cartridges to Col. Malmborg; the men are nearly all out." "What is the matter my boy?" "They shot me in the leg, sir; but I can go to the hospital. Send the cartridges right away." Even where he stood the shot fell thick, and I told him to go to the rear at once, I would attend to the cartridges, and off he limped. Just before he disappeared on the hill, he turned and called as loud as he could, "calibre 54." I have not seen the lad since, and his Colonel (Malmborg,) on inquiry, gives me his address as above, and says he is a bright, intelligent boy, with a fair preliminary education. What, continues the General, arrested my attention then was —and what renewed my memory of the fact now—is that one so young, carrying a musket ball through his leg, should have found his way to me on that fatal spot and delivered his message, not forgetting the very important part, even, of the calibre of his musket, 54, which you know is an unusual one.

Beautiful Answers.—A pupil of the Abbe Sicord gave the following extraordinary answers:

"What is gratitude?"

"Gratitude is the memory of the heart."

"What is hope?"

"Hope is the blossom of happiness."

"What is the difference between hope and desire?"

"Desire is a tree in leaf, hope is a tree in flower, and enjoyment is a tree in fruit."

"What is eternity?"

"A day without yesterday or to-morrow—a line that has no end."

"What is time?"

"A line that has two ends—a path which begins in the cradle and ends in the tomb."

"What is God?"

"The necessary being, the sum of eternity, the merchant of nature, the eye of justice, the watchmaker of the universe, the soul of the world."

"Does God reason?"

"Man reasons because he doubts; he deliberates—he decides. God is omniscient; He never doubts—He therefore never reasons."

"Serves You Right."—A lady of intense Secesh proclivities, who sometimes samples the fruit in the Pacific Market, inquired yesterday what kept the price of cherries so high this season. The fruit man, who is something of a wag and fond of a practical sell, replied:

"Oh, it is the internal revenue tax that does it, Marm. We have to put a stamp on every cherry this season."

"Serves you right, for going into such an infernal war," was the prompt reply. "I just hope old Linkum will confiscate 'em all."

She then left, satisfied that she had read him one practical lesson on the iniquity of endeavoring to maintain our nationality against the assaults of traitors.—Alta.

A Hard Case.—In a private letter to the editor of the Washington Republican, from the army, the writer tells a story of one of the farmers in the vicinity of Culpepper, whose possessions lay in a district where both armies have foraged. The old chap one day, while surveying ruefully the streaks in the soil where his fences once stood, remarked with much feeling: "I hain't took no sides in this yer rebellion, but I'll be doggoned if both sides hain't took me."

A clergyman who was consoling a young widow upon the death of her husband, spoke in a very serious tone remarking that "he was one of the few. You cannot find his equal, you know."

To which the sobbing fair one replied, with an almost broken heart, "I don't know, but I'll try.

A Cock-and-Bull Story.—A Long Island paper says that Mr. T. D. Cock, of Oyster Bay has contributed as his donation to the Sanitary Fair a young Durham bull, valued at $150. The irreverent Long Island print adds, "Bully for him."

"I wish you had been Eve," said an urchin to an old maid proverbial for her meanness. "Why so?" "Because you would have eaten all the apple instead of dividing it with Adam."

PERUVIAN SYRUP,

OR PROTECTED

Solution of Protoxide of Iron,

Has been used with Great Success in Curing

DYSPEPSIA,

Affections of the Liver, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Bronchitis and Consumptive Tendencies, Disordered State of the Blood, Female Complaints, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Scurvy, the prostrating effects of Lead or Mercury,

GENERAL DEBILITY,

and all Diseases which require a

Tonic and Alterative Medicine.

THE PROOFS OF ITS EFFICACY are so numerous, so well authenticated, and of such peculiar character, that sufferers cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the proffered aid.

The class of diseases for which the Syrup provides a cure, is precisely that which has so often baffled the highest order of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible.

From well-known Citizens of Boston.

The undersigned having experienced the beneficial effects of the "Peruvian Syrup," do not hesitate to recommend it to the attention of the public.

Certificate of Dr. Hayes.

It is well known that the medicinal effect of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

In the Peruvian Syrup, this desirable point is attained by COMBINATION IN A WAY BEFORE UNKNOWN; and this solution may replace all the proto carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica. A. A. HAYES, M D, Assayer to the State of Massachusetts.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART, LIVER, KIDNEYS, DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless, until Dr Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1856, page 76.)

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER,

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Full directions accompany each bottle.

Sold by all Druggists. Price, $1 per bottle. Prepared by Dr H. Anders & Co, Physicians and Chemists, New York.

STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE REMEDY upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutricious blood, and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and brings the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured; strength, in whatever manner it may have been wasted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthy invigorant; For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters,

As an invigorant and restorative, immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the depressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.
